

ANSWERS

CAVEAT: GIVEN THE CONTEXTUAL NATURE OF APPLYING DACS IN A SPECIFIC SETTING, THESE ANSWERS ARE NOT TO BE CONSTRUED AS THE “CORRECT” OR “ONLY” ANSWERS!

1. A handwritten transcription of a letter, 1791, from Abigail Capers, Saint Helena Island, South Carolina, describing her life at Laurell Hill, an indigo plantation; diary, 1862-1864, of Laura M. Towne (1825-1901) with discussions of African-Americans on Saint Helena Island, the work of members of the Port Royal Experiment there, Union troops in the area, and other matters; photographs of drawings, probably 1860s, of building on Saint Helena Island; and other items relating to Penn Normal, Industrial, and Agricultural School and to life on Saint Helena Island. This material was collected by Edith Mitchell Dabbs (1906- ), who wrote about the island's history.

Edith Mitchell Dabbs collection on St. Helena Island (S.C.)

2.3.18 (nature = collection) - 2.3.21 (topical segment)

2. Letters, accounts, receipts, deeds, and other papers of Charles West Jacocks (1799-1848), Jonathan Joseph Jacocks (1838-1892), Charles West Jacocks (1872-1959), and Jacocks family members, all of Bertie County, North Carolina, including letters received from relatives in Tennessee and elsewhere. Also included are a diary, 1883-1886, of Charles W. Jacocks (1843-1900), a fruit-grower in Orange County, Florida, and copies of family Bible records.

Jacocks family papers

2.3.10 (multiple individuals, common family surname) - 2.3.18 (nature = family papers)

3. Correspondence of Washington Territory Governor William A. Newell (1881-1884) pertaining to clemency and pardons, prison life, and criminal activity in Washington.

Governor William A. Newell (Wash.) correspondence regarding prisons

2.3.5 (abbrev. if fuller elsewhere) - 2.3.19 (1 or 2 specific forms) - 2.3.21 (topical segment)

Newell, William A. (William Augustus), 1817-1901

see also Washington Territory. Governor (1880-1884 : Newell)

4. Correspondence, writings, lectures, reports, proposals, scripts, notes, research files, minutes, financial records, clippings, printed material including catalogs and brochures, biographical material, layout designs, plans, drawings, photographs, and other papers documenting the design activities and professional associations of Charles and Ray Eames.

Charles and Ray Eames records OR ... records and papers

2.3.7 (3 or fewer names) - 2.3.18 (records/ papers distinction problematic for "corporate" individuals like designers, architects, etc.) (Library of Congress deed of gift for this specified Charles and Ray Eames papers, so deed of gift (i.e., a legal contract) trumps DACS for LC)

5. Miscellaneous correspondence, photographs, programs, and drawings by and about the architect Julia Morgan. These materials have been purchased by the library when available, beginning in 1952.

Collection on Julia Morgan OR Collection of Julia Morgan materials

2.3.6 (don't record repos. in name segment) - 2.3.18 (nature = collection) - 2.3.22 (clear indication of nominal subject when that person isn't the creator)

6. Blog with semi-weekly postings documenting the thoughts and activities of officers of the African American community-based organization Don't Trash Oakland. The blog contains approximately 200 megabytes of textual materials created from 2003 to 2005 to facilitate external communication by this not-for-profit organization. Topics covered by blog postings include affirmative action in California schools, African American identity issues, litter, beautification efforts, neighborhood violence, and local political activism aimed at improving community participation in the local political process. Principle posters include Spencer Fornadley, Tabitha Morgan, Conrad Wimberly, and Stella Young.

Don't Trash Oakland (Oakland, Calif.) community blog

2.3.19 (1 or 2 specific forms) - 2.3.21 (the "community" bit is a topical clarifier)

blog & web log in AAT – differences explained in scope note for terms in that thesaurus